RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river, up to last evening had fallen 2 inches, leaving 3½ feet water on the falls and 6 feet water in the canal. The Pittsburg rise has not yet reached here. The weather moderated yesterday and was cloudy. The steamer Pete Whetstone was got off the falls last evening, where she had been aground since Sunday. She sustained no damage.

The Superior is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day. The splendid steamers Hiawatha and A. B. Chambers leave for New Orleans to-day. The Hiawatha arrived yesterday from Pittsburg, where she was built, and is a large and fine boat. The Chambers was built at Cincinnati, is commanded by Captain Gormley, and is said to be an elegant boat.

The R. J. Ward, Capt. Silas F. Miller, a palace of a steamer and a prince of a captain, starts for New Orleans to-morrow evening.

The steamer Eunice leaves for St. Louis to-day, the Raven for the Tennessee river, and the Ranger, Return, Hickman, and Cambridge for Nashville.

Collision.—The steamers R. F. Sass, bound down, and the Metropolis, bound up, came in collision on Sunday night about four miles below Ironton. Neither of the boats sustained serious damage. The Sass can be repaired at an expense of seventy-five or one hundred dollars. The Metropolis was met by the Grampus No. 2, after the accident, under way.

COTTON GOING NORTH.—Messrs. Falls & Cash shipped two hundred bales of cotton per National yesterday for Cairo, which goes thence by railroad to New York and Fall River, Mass., one-half for each place. This will soon become an important route for shipping cotton to the eastern cities, provided the railroad companies establish a tariff to compete with other routes.—Memphis Bulletin.

The largest portion of this cotton will, doubtless, be returned by the same route to consumers of cotton goods in the near the cotton-planting States. The whole cost of transit cannot fall much if any below 6 cents per pound, reckoning freight, insurance, interest, and commission, and not including profits. For this 6 cents a pound the cotton, in a first-class and well-managed cotton mill, can be made up at or near the cotton fields into coarse cloth. What folly, then, to expect such a course of trade to continue. Dragging cotton and cotton goods twelve hundred miles each way, over coal fields and by water falls and through the richest subsistence country on earth to and from barren and cold New England where corn is planted with a crowbar on the hill sides, and where the valleys are made reservoirs of water power—a power, by the way, always uncertain and now largely aided by coal imported from Pennsylvania!

THE COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT TO MRS. DEMING. In another column will be found a correspondence between a large number of our citizens and the accomplished vocalist Mrs. Deming. Those who had the good fortune to hear this lady's charming singing at the Louisville Hotel on Monday evening last, were so greatly delighted with her musical power, and her sweet rendering of the most beautiful and difficult operas, and the heart-reaching ballads of Ireland and Scotland, that they insisted upon her receiving a complimentary concert at Mozart Hall to-morrow evening.

We are gratified that she has consented to remain here for that purpose. Her vocal powers are truly great, and our citizens will be more than satisfied with her performance. We urge all who really desire to hear good music to attend this concert. We understand that there will be a crowded house, for our citizens are determined to show that they can appreciate and will encourage real merit, even in one of their own countrywomen. We hope that for this reason, if for no other, Mrs. Deming will have the largest audience that ever filled Mozart Hall.

WHITEFIELD ADMITTED.—It will be seen, from the proceedings of the Lower House of Congress, that the vote, declaring Whitefield not entitled to a seat in that body as a delegate from Kansas, was reconsidered yesterday, and he was admitted by a vote of 112 to 108.

To us this seems to approach very closely to perfection:

HALF-WAY.

BY REV. T. HEMPESTAD.

Some silver lines begin to show
Amidst the brown like threads of snow
Along December hills,

While every bright-eyed bird that sings
Has flown, to break with dappled wings
The glaze of Southern rills.

Ah, thirty-four, brave thirty-four!
One green, revolving summer more

Will set my hurrying feet
Upon the midway, rounding slope

Of seventy years, while radiant Hope

And pensive Memory meet.

O, fleeting months! O, wasting years!

Sad days! and nights of haunting fears!

Ye came and ye gone—

Ye brought and broke some blessed dreams,

Ye dried some cool, refreshing streams,

And left the dusty stone!

Backward—my path lies dim in storms—

Dark-muffling pall and spectral forms

And poison'd blossoms wave;

Still, as I count each vanish'd foe

And severing hand, I grieve to know

The worst was not the grave.

Not sadness are the bells that toll

Some patient, lov'd, and lovely soul,

Back to its mansion fleet;

Grief hath a deeper grieve than all

The grave can bring—the heavy pall

That wraps the living dead!

True, there are spots like myrtle isles

That bloom and send their golden smiles

Down o'er the surging storms,

Green banks and valies—the whispering grove,

And flowers of woman's holly love,

And childhood's lily forms;

A falling eye, a sweet, young face,

A soft tone in a shady place

Girl by a jasmine wall;

The trace of quiet Sabbath hours—

Ah, royal gems, dear, painted flowers

Trampled and wither'd all!

Yet who laments that all are gone?

Pours on the cold, memorial stone

Grief's wild, tumultuous tides?

What soul so hopeless, poor, and vain

To tread life's weary road again

For all the gems it hides?

To drink the scorn, to feel the shame

That eats away the heart like flame,

With not a face to love?

To hear a thousand clarions call

Away to Glory's crowning hall,

Without the power to move?

I crave it not! yet thanks to Thee,

Lord of the lily, heart, and sea,

For life, though held in pain;

I yearn; am blind, I faint, I pine,

Yet, when the glorious task is mine

A better land to gain.

Green spread me for the Summer hills,

Softh hangs the bridal blue that fills

The noon's imperial arch,

Mine are the songs of bird and blast,

The softer memories of the Past—

The stars' triumphal march.

'Tis mine the brooklet's maze to trace,

Look on the regal human face

Still redolent of God;

In gentle word and quiet deed,

To swathe some hearts that ache or bleed,

Uproot the thistle and venomous weed,

And strew the olive and myrtle seed,

As violets strew the sod.

For these, to Thee, be incense given,

First, Highest, Brightest, King of Heaven,

And Lord of quick and dead!

Thanks! for the desert's wasted springs,

As for the foun't nearest sings,

And to the soft wind's idle wings,

Dissolves in diamond whorls and rings,

As it heard Thy tread!

Thanks! for the glory of the rose—

The mantle of the mountain snows—

Thanks! for the tyrant's brazen blows,

And for the scorner's scorn;

Thanks! for the good and lovely bow

In death, as for the Blessed Brow

That wore the Crown of Thorns!

In the lash'd slave's unpitied groans,

In rooms where the starv'd orphan moans,

In the heart's crushing stone—

Yea, in the mighty soots that knoll

The breaking of the Golden Bowl,

Great God, Thy will is done.

Mr. McLEOD'S LECTURE.—The announcement that Mr. McLeod was to deliver a lecture on "Late Justice, as exemplified in the Life of Mary Queen of Scots," drew out a very good audience, but not as large a one as was expected. He has an extended reputation as a writer, and not one of those familiar with the products of his pen should have been absent from Mozart Hall last night. The lecturer, throughout his discourse, manifested the deepest feeling not only for poor Mary, the subject of his lecture, but for brave, unfortunate Scotland and for that religion which Mary professed, and for the sake of which she suffered a cruel, life-long persecution. Mr. McLeod is a staunch Catholic, and he scoured with an unsparing lash every one who ever persecuted Mary Queen of Scots or caused her sorrow. The contemporary enemies of Mary were anathematized by the lecturer until their very dust must have trembled in their graves; and William Makepeace Thackeray, who lectured last winter in New York, was denounced as "a literary grave-rat" for reviving the puritan dogmas which had embittered Mary's youth and kept her twenty years in a prison and at last caused her to end her life on a scaffold. We have not room to give a full synopsis of Mr. McLeod's lecture, though we would much like to do so. He treated his subject boldly and manifested devotion to his religion and his nationality.

INVASION OF POINTE COUPEE.—Under this caption, the Pointe Coupee (La.) Echo, of the 29th, gives an account of the lawless acts of three desperadoes—James Mayes, Ephraim Mayes, and W. R. Henderson—who crossed the river from Bayou Sara on the previous Wednesday, and fairly took possession of Pointe Coupee. They entered the hotel of Mr. Flecheux, drove the proprietor and his family out, pitched furniture through the windows, drank themselves drunk and then smashed up the bar. They rioted undisturbed for full five hours, and the Echo accounts for this by the absence at the time of the immediate neighbors. They were finally driven off by a Mr. Senthall, armed with a revolver, and proceeded up the river, committing similar outrages at various stores and dwellings on their route. A number of citizens succeeded in arresting them that night near Morganza, and they are in jail under charges of robbery and attempted arson, having during their spree made preparations to fire Mr. Flecheux's house.

THE TONNAGE OF THE UNITED STATES.—The Secretary of the Treasury, in his annual report, gives a statement showing that the tonnage of the United States on the 30th of June, 1856, was 340,349 less than shown by the statement for the 30th of June, 1855. This has arisen in part from a stricter examination of the returns of former years, and a correction, by striking out vessels formerly sold without the United States, or lost by marine or other casualties. There has been a regular progressive increase, with our increasing population and commerce, although retarded at times by the accidents of war, the casualties of trade and commercial difficulties.

The New Orleans Picayune notices the engagement of a ship of 800 tons to take a full cargo of cotton seed from that port to Providence, R. I., where the article is to be turned into oil and oil cake. An extensive factory for extracting oil from the seed of cotton is already in operation in Rhode Island, and one or two companies are forming in Boston with the object of getting up similar establishments there. This is an enterprise in which the South is greatly interested, promising, as it does, to convert an article hitherto worse than useless into one of great commercial value.

SIX MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.—The Mercantile Marine Insurance Company of New York publishes the startling statement that it has paid, during the past three years, over six millions of dollars to the merchants for marine losses, or two million per annum. And yet the Company is sound, solvent, and flourishing, suggesting another startling fact in regard to the enormous amount which the merchants must have paid into the Company in the meantime, in the shape of premiums or policies.

The New York Post says that William Henry Hurlburt, a native of South Carolina, but at present residing in New York, is the author of the article upon the Southern States, published in the Edinburgh Review, and to which reference was made by Senator Benjamin during the late debate in the Senate.

The Franklin (La.) Journal says that all the negroes in that parish who were arrested on a charge of being connected with an insurrectionary plot have been discharged, with the exception of one free negro. Three white men were arrested on a flatboat for being at the head of the plot.

Hon. Edward Stanley, at present and for some time a visitor to his ancient home in North Carolina, is shortly to return to California. It is stated, however, that he intends making North Carolina his permanent residence.

About eighty slaves, who were set free by the will of the late Jas. H. Terrell, of Albemarle county, Va., have gone to Norfolk to embark for Liberia.

A MISSING MAIL BAG.—The Atlanta (Ga.) Intelligencer states that, some two or three weeks ago, a brass lock mail bag started from Knoxville to Nashville, Tenn., failed to reach its destination. It was either lost or stolen, but no clue as to its fate could be found until a few days ago. This "clue" is thus given by the journal named:

A man named Wm. Smith, formerly a "drummer" at Lloyd's Hotel, in this city, but who has for some time past been employed as mail guard on the Western and Atlantic railroad, was known to have a good deal of money—was handling and spending much larger amounts than appeared consistent with his position of life. The circumstance was brought to the attention of the officers of the road, and one night last week Col. R. J. Cowart called upon the young man at his lodgings, and succeeded in obtaining from him a bill on Tennessee bank, on the back of which he had found in a safe a receipt-book on the back of which he had written that he had one of my one claimed it. As the mails between Knoxville and Nashville pass from Dalton to Chattanooga over the State road, it is reasonable to suppose that this Smith knows the fate of the missing brass lock bag.

United States special agents are on the spot making inquiries.

THE INDIANS OF AMERICA.—We abstract from the report of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs the following interesting statement respecting the civilized red men:

Churches and religious influences and schools are well sustained among these Indians, and all seem to be impressed with a desire to educate their children. The State of New York and the American Board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions are making preparation for education among them. The Thomas Asylum on the Cattaraugus reservation is completed, and is now rapidly filling with orphan and destitute children. The Indians on this last reservation have had the kind offices and aid of the Society of Friends, and the patronage of the Department has also been extended to certain contingencies.

The Ottowas and Chippewas and the Chippewas of Saginaw and Swan creek and Black river, all within the State of Michigan, continue gradually to increase in numbers as well as in extent in the arts of agriculture, and in the liberal provisions of the treaties of 1854, by which every family is to receive a homestead from the public domain, and the friendly feelings manifested toward each by the people of the State, present indications would seem to justify the belief that the Indians will attain much higher state of civilization, and possess more of the comforts of life than they have heretofore done. They are beginning to locate on the lands assigned them, and apparently highly appreciate the separate houses in which they are entitled.

The Chippewas of the lake Superior region, who inhabit the northern peninsula of Michigan, the northern part of Wisconsin, and that portion of Minnesota between the St. Louis river and the British line, have been furnished with a liberal supply of farming implements, carpenters' tools, hoes, axes, &c., and have received appropriations from every Indian having a house and residing in it has been supplied with a good cooking stove and the usual cooking utensils, a table, bureau, chair, bedstead, looking-glass, and many small articles for household use. The effect of this policy is quite perceptible and salutary, and has stimulated the Indians to make improved applications to the land, and several other places. Certificates have been issued to all the half breeds who, by the provisions of the recent treaty, are entitled to land, which, if presented at the land office, will serve to entitle to each of them the quantity to which they are entitled, which may be as large as a quarter section of the public domain not otherwise appropriated.

In addition to those among the Indians of Michigan proper, schools are now maintained at L'Anse, Bad river, La Pointe, and Grand Portage, all among the Chippewas of Lake Superior.

The extended area of country embraced by the Indian Agency renders it impossible for the agent to devote as much time to the Indians under his charge as is absolutely necessary. There is ample business for two agents, and with two faithful men to attend them, in making applications for land, and for the payment of rents and taxes, &c., which, for their good, may be accomplished. They are prepared to take advice and receive instruction.

The jurisdiction of the northern superintendence has been extended over the Indians of Minnesota, the Oneida, Stockbridge, and other anomalous tribes in Wisconsin, still remaining with its limits.

But little since last year, and no event of importance has occurred among them except the murder of one of the chiefs by a member of the tribe. This event, however, did not bring with it any increased apprehensions of serious disturbances. The murder was committed under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Under the operations of the treaty of February 15, 1856, between the Stockbridge Indians, Oneida, and Seneca, and the Indians of the northern part of the State, the Stockbridge difficulties, which for a number of years past have been a source of trouble and vexation, will soon be terminated. An arrangement has been made by which a tract of land on the west end of the Menomonee reservation has been selected for a permanent home for the Indians.

Some of these Indians have already commenced to build themselves houses at their new location, and measures have been taken to insure the final removal of all of them as soon as this can be prudently and properly effected. It is to be hoped that after the completion of the new home, the Indians of this tribe may meet with no encouragement, either in Wisconsin or elsewhere.

The necessity of the case and the interest of the Indians require that they should remove from their present location at Stockbridge without delay.

The advancement of the Menomonees is constant and steady. Although obstacles have been thrown in the way of these Indians, and the vicious and unscrupulous have endeavored to thwart all the efforts made for their improvement, and the grasping avarice of unprincipled white men, in many instances, have caused apprehensions of serious difficulties.

All the work in the fields as well as in the shops is done by Indians, and the workmen are men. Menomonees have been expert carpenters, providing not only the general carpenter shop with hands, but the different bands have carpenters among them, who are erecting houses for the various families to facilitate which the council has requested that a tract of land be given to them in fee simple, &c., notwithstanding all this, their progress is very gratifying, and the results already attained leave no doubt but the Menomonee Indians in a very few years will completely and perfectly adapt themselves to industry and agriculture. Indian agents and others have been instrumental in aiding the tribe.

The agent, farmer, miller, teacher, and one blacksmith are the only white persons located at the agency and employed on the reservation.

The Vera Cruz correspondent of the New Orleans Picayune writes to that paper, under date of the 16th ult.:

The news of Pueblo continues to be prosecuted with vigor, but as yet without any decisive result. The probabilities are, however, that the government troops will again succeed in crushing the reconquistas in that quarter.

Communication with the capital, as well as with the interior, is almost entirely suspended by the pronunciados robbers and banditti, who all day long infest the roads.

The Pueblo newspaper of this place, alluding to this matter, says "Already the reconquistas no longer confine themselves to the defense of their cause—invading private rights and committing acts of vandalism which will place them in the category of foemen and assassins." It was agreed for the defenders of republica fuerza to give such examples of immorality. To them belongs the glory of such criminal conduct, and to society the duty to purge itself of such depraved beings."

Under these circumstances, the Pueblo people write only when a carrier is discovered, and then it is but seldom, we have consequently very meager and irregular advices from the city of Mexico and all parts thereof. In fact, we are in a state of profound ignorance as to recent events in Queretaro, Jalisco, Michoacan, &c.

MUSKVILLE AND LEXINGTON R. R. Eben Milton Esq., of Lexington, was present as the agent and attorney of the bondholders and the purchasers of the road—with authority to do all that was necessary to perfect the organization of the road under the act of the Kentucky Legislature of March 8, 1856.

The meeting was organized by calling Eben Milton, Esq., to the chair, and appointing Robert A. Cochran, Esq., secretary. The bondholders—i.e., those who had not received the dividend of $25 40 in full of their bonds—made known through their agent their intention to organize the company, subscribing as stock therein their bonded debt and interest—equal to 11,500 shares of $50 each, or $575,000. Different gentlemen present held proxies to vote the stock of about two-thirds of the stockholders, and cast a unanimous vote for seven directors of the new company—Wm. W. Corcoran, of Washington City, Wm. Howe, L. V. Hoffman, Edward Stucker, and three others, whose names we have forgotten—all of New York city. A little additional business, entirely of a formal character, was done when the meeting adjourned.

After the meeting, the gentlemen present remained and spent an hour in free conversation about the prospects of the road, the best plan to pursue to enlist public opinion in favor of an early completion of the road, &c. We understand nothing further was done, than to send a communication to the New York stockholders in reference to future action about the road.—Muskville Eagle.

In the Supreme Court of New York, on Saturday, December 10, Judge Hoffman decided that a client had a right to change his counsel at his pleasure, no matter what his motives might be, as the relation of counsel and client required the most unlimited confidence and perfect harmony. He further decided that an attorney has no claim upon the papers entrusted to him further than to secure costs and fees; and that even then he may be compelled to produce them under certain contingencies.

Mr. A. P. Cook arrived at Washington, on Sunday, from Arizona, the new Territory formed out of the Gadsden purchase from Mexico. He brings with him his credentials, and will claim a seat in the House of Representatives as a Delegate from that Territory. He reports the population of Arizona at from ten to fifteen thousand persons, and that the Territory will make a State about as large as Pennsylvania.

A caucus of the Virginia Congressional delegation was held at Washington on Saturday evening, at which they declared their preference for Mr. Bocock, should Mr. Buchanan think proper to give Virginia a Cabinet appointment. Governor Floyd, who arrived at the seat of Government on Sunday, strongly disapproves of the action of the Virginia Electoral College.

JOY TO THE WORLD!

It cures all Diseases of the BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL, DROPSY, OBSTRUCTIONS,

FEMALE COMPLAINTS, CHRONIC GONORRHEA, STRICTURES, GLEET,

And all diseases arising from excesses and improprieties in life.

NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED SUFFERERS, And removes all impure discharges from the Bladder, Kidneys, or Sexual Organs, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE.

From whatever cause they may have originated, and NO MATTER HOW LONG STANDING, NO MATTER HOW GREAT THE PAIN AND VIGOR TO THE FRAME,

AND BLOOM TO THE PALLID CHEEK.

Debtors brought on by abuse, a most terrible disease, which has through thousands of the human family to untimely graves, this blasphemous concoction of parents and blighted the life of the glorious Thomas Jefferson, can be cured by the use of this

IN FALLIBLE REMEDY.

BEWARE OF QUACK NORMS AND QUACK DOCTORS.

HELBOLD'S HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND FLUID EXTRACT OF BUCHU

Is prepared directly according to the

RULES OF PHARMACY AND CHEMISTRY.

With the greatest exactness and chemical knowledge and care, developed in its combination. Its popularity has extended in all directions, and, whether used in town, country, hospital, or private practice, has invariably given the most decided and unequivocal satisfaction and produced the most salutary and beneficial effects. It has been used in all the principal cities of the United States and British Provinces, and in medical and private practice, with great success. Henceforth let it be understood, that for the proofs are too overwhelming to be contradicted, that Helbold's Highly Concentrated Compound Fluid Extract of Buchu is the most valuable remedy ever devised to the afflicted.

The mass of valuable testimony in possession of the proprietor is immense, containing names well-known to Celebrated Physicians and distinguished Clergymen.

See Professor Dewey's valuable work on the Practice of Physic and Therapeutics, and Dr. T. C. M. Wood's Medicine, the medicine which is perfectly pleasant in its taste and odor, but immediate in its action, and it is taken by persons of either sex, without hindrance from business or medical advice, as explicit directions for use and ample number of reliable and responsible certificates to convince the most sceptical and unfeignedly honest.
